

Fit for the Future

Education policy development programme

Route map

The Royal Pharmaceutical Society is undertaking a root and branch review of pharmacy education policy. This provides an opportunity to take a holistic approach to education across the pharmacy team and across the careers of individual pharmacists and pharmacy technicians. The programme will focus on different aspects of the education process for both pharmacists and technicians. The consultation route map shows how all the consultations link together to inform the Society's education policy development programme. The consultation route map also shows the vital role stakeholders have played in this very important policy development programme
